

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Azarish C. Flagg, Esq. Secretary of the State of New York, then attended in the Assembly chamber, and duly administered to the members present the oath prescribed by the sixth article of the constitution of this State.

The House then proceeded to choose by ballot a Speaker; and the ballots having been taken and counted, it appeared that Charles L. Livingston was duly elected, and he was placed in the chair accordingly.

On motion of Mr. Spencer,
Resolved, That Francis Seger be, and he is hereby appointed Clerk of this House.

On motion of Mr. Downing,
Resolved, That James D. Scollard be, and he is hereby appointed Sergeant-at-Arms of this House.

On motion of Mr. Ostrander,
Resolved, That Aloozo Crosby be, and he is hereby appointed Doorkeeper of this House.

On motion of Mr. Crookshank,
Resolved, That James Courten be, and he is hereby appointed Assistant Doorkeeper of this House.

Ordered, That Mr. Granger and Mr. Ostrander be a committee to wait upon the Governor, and inform him that this House has organized, and is ready to proceed to business.

Ordered, That Mr. Moulton and Mr. Tilford be a committee to wait upon the Senate with a like message.

A message from the Senate, delivered by Mr. Hubbard and Mr. Mather, was received, informing that they were appointed a committee to announce to this House that the Senate had met, and was ready to proceed to business.

Mr. Granger reported, that pursuant to the order of the House, Mr. Ostrander and himself had waited upon the Governor, and informed him that this House had met, and was ready to proceed to business; and that the Governor had been pleased to say that he would immediately communicate his message to the Assembly.

Mr. Moulton reported, that pursuant to the order of the House, Mr. Tilford and himself had waited on the Senate, and informed them that this House had met, and was ready to proceed to business.

On motion of Mr. Remer,

Resolved, That the clerk be directed to furnish to each member of this House, during the present session, such newspapers as they may respectively direct, not exceeding in price two daily papers, and defray the expenses out of the contingent funds of this House.

On motion of Mr. Juliand,

Resolved, That the Speaker appoint the usual standing committees of this House.

On motion of Mr. Stilwell,

Resolved, That the clerk of this House be directed to cause to be procured, new and convenient desks and seats for the use of the members of this House, in the place of those now here; and also a chandelier of suitable size and quality, to be fitted up and suspended in the centre of this hall.

On motion of Mr. Myers,

Resolved, That the clerk be authorised, and he is hereby required to furnish the members of this House with the usual articles of stationery, of qualities corresponding with those furnished the Honorable the Senate, and that the same be paid for out of the contingent funds of this House.

On motion of Mr. Myers,

Resolved, That petitions which are the subject of reference to standing committees, and which may be presented previous to the appointment of those committees, shall be referred directly to such committees; and it shall be the duty of the clerk to hand them to the chairmen of the appropriate committees when appointed, in the order as to priority in which they are presented to the House.

On motion of Mr. Otis,

Resolved, That the rules and orders of the last House of Assembly be adopted as the rules and orders of this House, until further ordered.

Mr. Seymour offered for the consideration of the House, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That the clerk of this House be, and he is hereby directed to request the several clergymen of the city of Albany, having charge of congregations, to attend the opening of this House each morning by prayer, in such order as may best suit their convenience.

Ordered, That the said resolution do lie upon the table.

On motion of Mr. Stilwell,

Resolved, That the clerk cause to be procured for the use of this House, diagrams of the Senate and Assembly chambers; the Constitution of this State, and of the United States, with marginal notes; the order of business in the Senate and Assembly; the joint rules and orders, and the rules and orders of the Senate and Assembly; an alphabetical list of the members of both houses, with their places of residence, a list of the members of this House by counties, and a list of senators arranged according to their districts; the standing committees of both Houses; the select committees of both Houses on the Governor's message; a list of the State or salary officers, and their respective salaries; an alphabetical list of the several towns and counties in this State, with the number of inhabitants in each, according to the last census of this State and of the United States; the estimated quantity of acres of land, and the valuation of real and personal estate; the amount of canal tolls received at each of the offices in the State; a list of the banks and insurance companies in the State, with the amount of their capital, the time when their charters will expire, and an abstract of the returns made by the banks in 1828; copies of a map of the State of New-York, and a calendar for 1832: and to have the same bound in a pocket volume, and deliver a copy thereof to each of the members and officers of this House.

On motion of Mr. Stilwell,

Resolved, That the Speaker appoint, in addition to the usual standing committees of this House, a committee to be entitled "The standing committee on rail-roads."

A message from the Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was received and read, in the words following, to wit:

GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE, AND OF THE ASSEMBLY:

In contemplating the occurrences of the past year, we cannot be too grateful to the Ruler of events for our condition, as contrasted with that of the people under other governments. While we are happy, in the enjoyment of peace and plenty, without restraint, under the mild influence of institutions of our own choice, and laws of our own enactment; they have been agitated with alarms, wasting themselves with internal or external warfare, and submitting to cruel sacrifices in their efforts to reform abuses, or to revolutionize their governments.

We, as men and as republicans, cannot be indifferent spectators of the struggles of liberty in any part of the globe, whether in the old or the new world, in classic Greece, heroic Poland, or along the shores of the Oronoke or La Plate. But for the wreck of Poland's hopes we have peculiar regrets. We cannot forget that her gallant sons, animated by the most disinterested love of liberty, and looking upon tyranny every where as the common enemy, encountered it in our army, and shed their blood in our defence. That generous and chivalrous nation, in this day of her adversity, is entitled to, and receives from us, fraternal sympathy.

The wealth, the trade, and the external pomp of a nation, do not always indicate a happy condition of the people who compose it. Through the perversions by man, of the blessings which a kind Providence designs for all his reasonable creatures, we sometimes witness the incongruity of great apparent national prosperity, while a large proportion of the population, deprived of every comfort, are absorbed in the cares of procuring the means to sustain life. It is not so with us. Here national prosperity is the prosperity of every individual. Not a cent is contributed by way of tax, not a dollar is expended from the public coffers, which is not assented to by the people, and employed to enlarge their means of enjoyment. Yet, with all these advantages, gloomy patriots have presaged a speedy downfall of our government; and there have not been wanting others, who have employed themselves to convert such forebodings into history.

Some reflecting statesmen among us have entertained a distrust of the perpetuity of our free institutions, from the tendency of large masses of people to blind infatuation, and common errors of opinion; and others from the possibility of legislating our constitution into something different from its fair import; while a common infirmity of human nature disposes us to change our position, whatever may be its advantages.

The ancient democracies were composed of small communities, and from the first of the above causes, were of short duration. These examples, however, should give us no alarm, because we enjoy advantages for a durable republic, which were formerly unknown, in the superior intelligence of the great body of the people, and in the extension of our popular institutions so as to embrace a great nation. Nor should we anticipate uninterrupted quiet, for communities the most enlightened may occasionally be affected by the contagious phrenzy of popular delusions, and push blindly forward to deeds of fatuity; yet in such, the clouds of passion soon pass away, and ill-founded or ill-directed excitements vanish in the neighborhood of their source.

In relation to the second source of distrust, questions arise which always have divided, as they always will divide, the political opinions of the people. Hitherto all attempts which have been made to give, by legislation, a permanent enlargement to the provisions of the constitution, have, in the most unequivocal manner, been repelled by the people. Our present chief magistrate commended himself to the suffrages of his fellow citizens, by his ability, the patriotism of his personal sacrifices, and the soundness of his views on all these questions; and he owes their increasing affections, as well to the frank and fearless manner in which he has since avowed these opinions and acted upon them, as to the success, both at home and abroad, which has attended the measures of his administration.

The President's recent message to Congress presents a gratifying picture of our foreign relations and internal condition. We have nothing to fear from collision with any foreign power, and with some of the principal nations of Europe our differences of long standing have been adjusted, and our intercourse is upon the footing of reciprocal good will. At home, industry is branching into new channels, and its productiveness is evinced in public enterprizes for improving the internal condition of the States, and in a more general diffusion of individual wealth.

This state is so happily situated, from its geographical position, its fertile soil, its facilities for conducting manufacturing operations, its mineral treasures, and its great commercial city, that no general causes of prosperity can prevail, without a large share of their advantages being enjoyed by us.

The revenues derived to the general government from commerce are annually increasing, although our home industry has recently supplied our markets, wholly or in part, with many articles which formed a material proportion of our importations. Increase of revenue under such circumstances, affords another evidence of our prosperity, because the desire of enjoyment increases with the means of gratifying it; and so the amount of foreign trade is a proof of the wealth, as well as the wants of a nation.

The revenues are so abundant as to admit of no doubt that the national debt will be entirely paid off in the course of two years: indeed the President expresses his belief, that it may be extinguished during his present term of office. When this event occurs, it will be hailed with great joy by the people of this country, not so much on account of the burden which will have been removed, as by reason of its settling a political doctrine respecting debts contracted on legislative authority, by a precedent adverse to the theory which obtains under governments differently constituted.

Whatever may be thought of the fitness of borrowing money on the credit of the government, for its defence, or to prosecute great enterprizes for the durable benefit of the country, no person can question the injustice of transmitting to those who come after us the burden of a heavy debt. No public debt should be created, but with ample provision for its liquidation within a reasonable time. It has never yet been determined by the representatives of a free people, what extent of moral obligation rests upon them to provide for the discharge of a debt, forwarded on for payment, by their predecessors in power.

The financial condition of our State is a source of congratulation. We have large funds secured for common schools and literary purposes; a large capital has been invested in internal improvements; and the State owes no debt except for the construction of its canals.

By a law of the last session, all the fiscal accounts of the State are to be closed on the thirtieth day of September, instead of the thirtieth day of November, as formerly established. The exhibit therefore for the present year will embrace the transactions of ten months only, and the sums given must be taken with that qualification.

The canal debt amounted on the first day of January, eighteen hundred and thirty-one, to seven millions, eight hundred and twenty-five thousand and thirty-five dollars. Nine thousand six hundred and fifty-three dollars of the stock has been cancelled, and two hundred and forty thousand, two hundred and sixty-three dollars has been borrowed during the past year for continuing the works upon the Chemung and Crooked lake canals, so that the debt on the first day of January instant, amounted to eight millions, fifty-five thousand, six hundred and forty-five dollars.

The receipts into the treasury, of revenue on account of the canal fund during the past year, to the thirtieth day of September last, are: On account of tolls, seven hundred and twenty-two thousand, eight hundred and ninety-six dollars; from other sources, three hundred and seven thousand and twelve dollars. These receipts, however, do not include the collections of tolls and salt duties for the month of September, as the arrangements with the depositing banks do not make these collections payable into the treasury, until the fifteenth day of October.

The expenditures for the same time, on account of interest, repairs, superintendence, &c. amount to the sum of five hundred and six thousand, eight hundred and sixty-six dollars; which, deducted from the receipts, leaves five hundred and twenty-three thousand and forty-five dollars, which has been added to the fund under the control of the Commissioners, applicable to the extinguishment of the canal debt.

This fund, amounting to two millions, two hundred and thirty-eight thousand, one hundred and ninety-eight dollars, and which deducted from the canal debt, leaves the balance of that incumbrance five millions, eight hundred and seventeen thousand four hundred and forty-seven dollars, is either vested in stocks or deposited in banks, at various rates of interest, from three and a half to five per cent.

It may be satisfactory to state, in addition to the operations of the fiscal year, that the whole amount of tolls received upon the canals up to the time of closing the navigation, is one million, two hundred and twenty-two thousand, four hundred and twenty-three dollars, of which, twenty-eight thousand, nine hundred and eighty-eight dollars, were received from the Oswego and Cayuga and Seneca canals.

The nominal amount of the general fund, on the thirtieth day of September last, was one million, one hundred and thirty-one thousand, two hundred and twenty-one dollars; its real value is supposed to be eight hundred and five thousand, nine hundred and eighty-seven dollars. The estimated receipts from it, applicable to the expenses of the government for the ensuing year, is one hundred and twelve thousand and one hundred dollars. The estimated expenditures for the same time, is two hundred and sixty-nine thousand, nine hundred and sixty-seven dollars. The actual payments out of the treasury during the past year, up to the thirtieth day of September, for the ordinary expenses of the government, including the incidental appropriations of the last session of the Legislature, amounted to two hundred and sixty-five thousand, five hundred and two dollars.

The amount of expenditures above the actual receipts of revenue, was paid out of the receipts into the treasury from the principal of the general fund, avails of the sales of escheated lands, and principal and interest of the school fund. The contributions from the last mentioned source will be refunded by a transfer of securities from the principal of the general fund.

Having in my former messages given a precise and full account of the condition of the treasury, it will not be necessary for me now to present the state of our finances more at large.

As the time is fast approaching when the means now at command to supply the disbursements of the government will be exhausted, and when new sources of revenue must be opened, I feel it my duty to keep you admonished of the fact, and to suggest such measures of relief as occur to my mind.

Our great and growing State, from its extent, population, and activity in commerce and the productive arts, will require for its ordinary expenses, and to cherish its various interests, a large annual expenditure of money. The common schools are now adequately provided for, and liberal appropriations have been made for the advancement of education in higher departments; but the time may come when the funds set apart for their use must be enlarged. The interests of learning will in various forms require both occasional and permanent aid from the government; crime must be punished, vice suppressed, and the helpless taken care of. The physical resources of the State must be developed by extending to sections which have never partaken of the public bounty, the benefits of the public enterprize. The iron regions of the north should be opened to their appropriate markets; and the southern and southwestern counties should, through their various practicable channels, find outlets for their rich and valuable products.

It is, I conceive, one of the most imperative duties of a government to open, as far as it has the means to do so, consistently with other interests, all the important avenues for the trade of the State. The discharge of this duty should not be confided to private interests, with its direct as well as incidental power and influence, without necessity. We have already reaped much profit as well as glory in the construction of our two canals, along the main channels of the trade of the State. These enterprizes were justified by plain indications, both of their utility and probable returns of profit, and the repayment of the debt was secured by an adequate appropriation from the public treasury.

I would not recommend a burden upon the people by way of tax, as heavy as that voluntarily assumed by our patriotic neighbours in Pennsylvania and Ohio; and I hope that by avoiding a large debt it will be unnecessary; but I propose to lay the foundation of a State fund to be sacredly appropriated to the purposes of internal improvements.

The means for the creation of a fund, and for revenue to defray the ordinary expenses of the government, are the residue of the general fund, the small remains of unappropriated land, the power of partial taxation, and of laying a general direct tax: the means in prospect are, the auction and salt duties, and tolls of our canals, when they shall be released from constitutional restrictions.

I had hoped that the people of the United States would see the justice and propriety of allowing the States to share in a fixed amount and permanent distribution of the surplus revenues; but the times seem unpropitious to measures for obtaining the necessary amendments of the constitution for that purpose. A hope is held out to us, that the public lands, or the proceeds of the sale of them, may be distributed among the States.

If we should be thrown upon the necessity of imposing a direct tax to raise revenue for any purpose connected with the public welfare, I have sufficient confidence in the patriotism and intelligence of our fellow citizens to believe, that they will cheerfully assent to its imposition. They have heretofore done so without a murmur, when the amount of the tax was larger, than, with prudent foresight, we shall ever again want. They will not, I feel assured, require their representatives to delay a resort to this measure, until the public interests have materially suffered.

Many wise and well meaning statesmen imagine, that the revenue from our canals, when the debt shall be paid, will be abundant for all the purposes for which revenue is wanted, and even that it will bear some additional burdens in advance. This is but hypothesis, and is to a certain extent fallacious.

Although the canal tolls are greatly increasing, it is doubted whether the Erie canal will remain the sole, or even the favored, channel for the trade of the west. I allude to projected works diverging from it, at various points, which, with the enterprize of our neighboring States, may compel us to establish a rival way upon its borders. The canal debt, though comparatively small, is intrinsically large, and the means of paying it should not be hazarded.—There is but little probability that the annual expenses for repairs will ever be much less than at present. And reasons of public policy may, in future times, exist to reduce the tolls, and thus materially diminish the revenue to be derived from them. If, however, the canal revenues should be carefully protected, and they should continue in their present flourishing condition, a very few years will place at the disposal of the State authorities, a large annual supply of money, to be employed for any useful purpose.

Among the improvements of the age, the science of road making, as being most intimately connected with our interests and our comfort, deserves to be mentioned. In governments of long standing, the most formidable impediments to good roads have been directly encountered, and works which astonish us by their magnitude, have been accomplished by the accumulated labor of ages.

The Roman roads were so permanently built, that portions of them have withstood the ravages of two thousand years. They were made as nearly level as possible, by cutting through mountains and filling up vallies; and their surface was made smooth and firm, by laying heavy hewn stone in a bed of mortar. The French have great highways, radiating in all directions from their capital city, built after the Roman manner. In Holland, and other parts of the Netherlands, roads are made by preparing a firm foundation on which brick are laid in mortar.

Rail-roads are of modern invention, more simple and less expensive than the Roman, French, or Dutch roads, and probably better adapted to a cheap, safe and rapid transmission of persons and commodities. There is reason to believe that for great thoroughfares, they will not only supersede every other kind of road, but enter into a successful competition with canals also. They are not so well adapted to general use, as either roads or canals, because they will admit upon their track none but public vehicles of a peculiar construction.

The directors of the Liverpool and Manchester rail-road in England say, in their report made last May, that they had been able to reduce the price of carrying goods one-third, and of passengers one-half; that the rail-way is peculiarly adapted to the conveyance of heavy and bulky articles, and that the conviction is now general, that travelling by the rail-way is the safest, as well as the cheapest and most expeditious.

The public papers have announced, that numerous applications will be made to you for charters to construct these roads in various parts of the State; and the questions will be presented for your decision, whether joint stock companies shall be created to make them, or whether this kind of improvement shall be no further extended. If it should be deemed expedient to progress in these works, then the embarrassing questions will arise, how many shall be made, under what restrictions, and what routes shall be selected.

It is very obvious that a long period must elapse; that this generation and many others, and even centuries, will pass away, before all those improvements which are worthy of the enterprize of the government, and which in time will be wrought, can be undertaken upon the public means alone. Shall we then forbear to possess ourselves of these advantages, if they can be obtained without imposing public burthens? Charters create monopolies, which are odious to a certain extent, and ought not to be granted, except to accomplish some great public good which cannot be effected without them. The good to be effected, as well as the impossibility of attaining it through other means than private interest, is manifest; and I trust that some of the most meritorious of these applications will receive your sanction, with proper reservations. By inserting the clause, now so common in charters, saving to the Legislature the power to alter, modify and repeal them; and by reserving to the State the right to take possession of them as public property at pleasure, on equitable terms, charters for rail-roads may become eminently promotive of the public good, and I do not hesitate to recommend them as worthy of your profound consideration.

In lending a favorable ear to those projected improvements upon routes contiguous to, and intersecting our canals, or pointing to the sources of their trade, the Legislature should be extremely careful to do nothing which may interfere with the canal revenues, or retard the payment of the debt. It is supposed that companies may be formed to take charters for rail-roads upon the most important routes, with the condition of paying into the public treasury such rates of toll, that no loss of revenue will result from their interference with the business of our canals.

In reviewing the condition of our State, I am irresistibly impelled to notice the condition of our public highways; and in doing so, I aim at an object beyond your immediate legislation.

Our road tax is now generally looked upon as a burthen, and is worked out with as little fidelity in labor, or regard to time, as the laws and indulgent overseers will permit. Although we sometimes witness operations in repairing highways conducted with skill, and evincing a laudable neighborhood pride ; yet in most places they are managed without system, so that of the work of one year, scarcely any thing of value remains for the next. If our farmers, in whose hands these roads generally are, could be persuaded that a reasonable assessment, faithfully and judiciously worked out upon their roads, would be more profitable to them than the same amount of labor upon their farms ; and that it would enable them to carry much larger loads, in less time, with less injury to carriages and horses, to their next market town, and thus raise the value of their produce, we might expect to see an active spirit abroad to produce a reform in this particular. In the course of time, I should hope a better system of road laws would be proposed, with the general assent of the community ; for I am aware that no compulsory laws on this subject will be available, unless they have been previously sanctioned by the public voice.

The Secretary of State will present to you a full report of the condition of the common schools, and the operation of our poor laws.

On these subjects, I am not aware that any material legislation is necessary at this time. Both of the systems operate successfully ; and from the public interest excited in their favor, and their intrinsic merits, such defects as shall be developed will not fail to be presented for correction to the proper tribunal.

The number of school districts and pupils instructed, have increased since the last year. There are nine thousand three hundred and sixteen school districts in the State, and eight thousand eight hundred and eighteen of them have made returns according to the statute. The returns shew five hundred and eight thousand six hundred and fifty-seven children between the ages of five and sixteen years ; and that five hundred and five thousand nine hundred and forty-three have been instructed in the schools from which returns have been received. The amount of money paid to teachers, derived from the public treasury, town taxes and funds, and voluntary contributions, is six hundred and five thousand seven hundred and twenty-nine dollars.

The county poor-house system has been voluntarily assumed by so many counties, that we are permitted to hope that no compulsory legislation will be necessary to ensure its universal adoption. It has had the effect of providing more effectually and comfortably for the needy, and of repressing idleness ; and when in complete operation, it will save to the people of the State, in poor rates alone, an amount equal to one-half, and probably much more, of the ordinary expenses of administering the government.

May I not, in behalf of a class of beings, too powerless in all respects to lay their griefs before you, pray your early attention to their claims upon the paternal care of the State ? Two years since, I called the attention of the Legislature to the condition of our insane poor. A committee of three highly intelligent members were appointed to collect information on that subject, during the recess of the Legislature, and to visit the hospitals for the insane, both in our own and the neighboring States. They made a report to the Legislature, at the last session, which embodies a vast amount of information upon a subject but little understood by the public, and presents powerful motives for legislative action. Recent discoveries shew that insanity invariably proceeds from a disordered body; that it becomes incurable from neglect and harsh treatment; and that of recent cases, at least nine-tenths are discharged from hospitals properly conducted, restored. These facts speak volumes of reproof to us, for having so long neglected the subject. With that report before them, and a recollection of what they must have seen and felt if they have ever looked into a maniac's cell in a county poor-house, I cannot believe that the members of the last Legislature refrained from establishing a system of relief for insane poor, on any other account than the want of time, and the pressure of accumulated business. I recommend the subject to you as worthy of your first care, in the hope that it will not be put aside for measures of less public importance, urged forward with the ardor of personal interests.

There is another subject which deserves to be mentioned in connexion with this: I allude to a penitentiary for females. The want of such an institution is an acknowledged evil; and the remedy for it has been frequently discussed in the Legislature, without coming to any result.

The female convicts belonging to the prison at Sing-Sing are kept in a department of the alms-house in the city of New-York, prepared for that purpose, at the great expense of one hundred dollars each. Their number was forty-nine on the 19th day of December last. The number of female convicts at Auburn was, on the 17th December last, twenty-nine, who, for want of other accommodations, are confined together in one room. Among them are some of the most profligate of their sex, mingled with others, who, under proper restraint and instruction, might be reclaimed. The keepers find it beyond their power to preserve order among them. On a late visit there, I noticed the decent demeanor of a female, whose sentence of death for murdering her husband, had been commuted by me to imprisonment for three years, under a belief that she had produced the death by inadvertence, and from representations that she was of good character, but ignorant. The keepers informed me that her conduct had been orderly, and that she submitted with patience and gratitude to what she considered punishment administered with justice and great mercy. This is an extreme case of an individual remaining unharmed by that contaminating association; but there is an intermediate class of partially depraved young persons, who cannot escape utter pollution.

While I renew the recommendation, that a separate penitentiary be provided for female convicts, I remain of the opinion that it should be built at Sing-Sing, so as to be under the superintendence of the officers of that institution. There would be a great saving in the expense of building and managing such a prison at that place; and reasons of a moral nature should influence the choice of a site in the vicinity of the city of New-York.

To improve the condition of the county prisons should be an ever present care of the representatives of the people. In their present condition they are a prolific source of crime. Those prisons should be so arranged and managed as to hinder their inmates from contaminating each other, and to prevent the growth of those parent vices, idleness, gambling and drunkenness. This subject should not be suffered to rest until a uniform improved system pervades our State.

I need not urge upon you the importance of striking at the root of crime. Every successful measure of that tendency strengthens the bonds of society, lessens the amount of human misery, and diminishes the expenses of government in regard to pauperism and crime. The age in which we live is distinguished by the many successful efforts which have been made to diminish the provocatives, as well as to correct the predisposition to vice. It may be hailed as the glorious epoch when public opinion has chained to narrow limits that devouring monster intemperance; and when untiring philanthropy has perfected a system of instruction which promises much for the general diffusion of knowledge, and its results, the love of virtue and liberty. A system of infant instruction, which was originally devised for charity scholars, has been found so attractive to children, and so perfectly adapted to their instruction in the rudiments of science, that teachers, initiated into all its mysteries, are establishing schools upon that plan, throughout the country, for the reception of pay scholars. Children are taken care of in these schools, at an age so very early, that it is of importance to mothers, who are compelled to labor, to place their infants in them.

I think it not improper to notice an interesting experiment now in progress in the village of Rochester, to combine mechanical labor with instruction in those sciences which appertain to a liberal education. The pupils rise at four o'clock, work three hours and study ten. I have looked over an account which has been kept with twenty students during the last quarter, and they are credited for earnings in coopering, joiner's work and printing, a sum amounting to a trifle short of all the charges against them. Mechanical alternates better with study, than agricultural labor. The institution was founded last spring; it numbers now sixty-one pupils, and bids fair to realize the expectations of its generous patrons.

Our higher seminaries of learning, as creations of legislative wisdom, deserve legislative patronage, that they may fulfil the object for which they were founded.

Our state prison discipline is continued with the same results, which have given to the system its high reputation. The two hundred cells, ordered to be built at Sing-Sing, have been completed, and all of them will be soon occupied. That prison now contains one thousand cells; and nine hundred and sixty-three convicts were confined in them on the 19th day of December last.

Having been informed that there was a surplus number of convicts at that prison, and learning that they might be better accommodated at Auburn, I ordered sixty to be removed to the latter place, which was done early in the month of November last. I thought it expedient to adjust the matter thus between the prisons, both of which had a surplus, and not to alter the districts again, until the Legislature had signified its pleasure in regard to further appropriations for building. As now arranged, all the increase goes to Sing-Sing; indeed the number at Auburn, exclusive of those received from Sing-Sing, has declined twenty-nine since the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one. Since the same time, the increase at Sing-Sing has been two hundred and forty.

If it is intended to persevere in a faithful experiment of our system, it is necessary that our prison room should be immediately enlarged. The number of male convicts at Auburn, on the 17th day of December last, including those received from Sing-Sing, was six hundred and twenty-two. Of that number, five hundred and fifty are confined in single cells in the north wing, the rest are kept, two in a cell, in rooms prepared for them in the south wing. The south wing may be so altered, as to construct within it, upon the plan of the north wing, separate cells for as many convicts, as it will ever be thought proper to confine in that place. I recommend an appropriation for that purpose. It may be proper at the same time, to enlarge the prison at Sing-Sing. The reports of the inspectors of both prisons will, I hope, be sufficiently full to enable you to decide, at once, upon the subject.

The earnings of the convicts, at Auburn, continue to amount to more than enough to defray the expenses of that institution; and I am informed by the agent at Sing-Sing, that the prisoners at that place have earned during the last year, forty thousand dollars, besides building two hundred cells and one wing of a permanent stone shop, one hundred and fifty feet long, by thirty-six feet wide.

Our criminal code may be improved, by reducing the number of cases subject to capital punishment, and by enlarging the power of the courts to punish in some cases of peculiarly aggravated larcenies. The circumstances attending the late robbery of a bank in the city of New-York shew, that there are inducements for depredators to weigh, in advance, the value of expected booty against the power of the law to punish. This defect might be remedied by giving the court more discretion to punish for grand larceny, and by elevating in the scale of crime certain cases of burglary in the third degree.

Among the causes to which the increase of convicts in the state prison is to be attributed, a very principal one is the increase of state prison offences, introduced into the statutes, at the revision. The limited discretion of the court to punish misdemeanors, by imprisonment in the county prisons, operates, in my opinion, injuriously to the city of New-York, where they have a penitentiary as well adapted to the ends of punishment and reform as either of our state prisons. It is worthy of consideration whether the laws should not be so amended as to diminish the number of state prison cases; and to vest in the courts, particularly in New-York, the power to imprison for misdemeanors for such a period of time, as would produce a reasonable hope of amendment.

I renew the suggestion I made in my last message, that provision be made for taking the statistics of crime in this State. I am satisfied that proper returns would shew, that the apparent increase of convicts, is owing to causes other than a disproportioned growth of crime.

I have pardoned out of the state prison, during the last year, seventy-three convicts. A great proportion of these cases were brought to my notice without the intervention of friends, for many of them had none; and their claims to pardon, in some cases became equitable, on account of the mitigated punishments for similar crimes, prescribed by the revision of the laws.

There have been four cases of conviction for capital crimes reported to me, during the last year. In one of those cases I felt called upon by duty to arrest the execution; and I commuted the punishment to imprisonment in the state prison for seven years.

A law was passed at the last session to abolish imprisonment for debt; but its operation was suspended until the first day of March next, to enable the public to judge of its merits, and to afford an opportunity to make such alterations, as might be found necessary. The importance of that matter will induce you to give it an early consideration. The attainment of the desired object, with as little modification of the existing laws, and as few statutory provisions as possible, will be, undoubtedly, your aim. Brevity in laws leaves less to the discretion of the court, and brings them nearer to the common understanding.

A resolution passed both houses of the last Legislature to alter the constitution so as to admit a reduction of the duty on salt manufactured within this State to six cents a bushel. This will infringe upon no other interest, public or private, and is both just and politic. The Legislature will be enabled thereby, to relieve, when necessary, a branch of home industry, important to the country on account of the article, and to the government on the score of revenue. Those who have embarked their fortunes in a business which pays a duty of nearly double the value of the manufactured article, and who may be ruined by a change in the policy of our revenue laws, have a claim to be placed at least within the range of legislative discretion. I hope, therefore, that the resolution will receive your sanction, in order that it may be submitted to the people, at the next election, for their approbation as a proposed amendment of the constitution.

The reports of the Adjutant-General and Commissary-General, which will be forwarded to you in due season, will present the military force of the State. The number of the militia, as near as it can now be ascertained, is one hundred and eighty-nine thousand. We have in our arsenals forty-eight thousand, five hundred and forty-seven muskets, two thousand, four hundred and nine rifles, and three hundred and forty pieces of ordnance. Of the latter, about two hundred and twenty pieces are mounted for field service, and distributed to artillery companies.

It is believed that some improvements in the militia system are necessary to make it conform to the changes which have taken place in the condition of the country, since it was put in operation, that the public may be relieved of a portion of the burden, consistently with all the objects which it was intended to secure. If, on examination it should appear to the Legislature that the paramount powers of Congress over the subject, present an insuperable obstacle to the accomplishment of this object by state legislation, it will be worthy of consideration whether the Senators from this State ought not to be instructed to propose such amendments to the act of Congress, regulating the enrollment and organization of the militia, as may be necessary to secure the required relief.

Our claims upon the national government, on the ordnance account, have not yet been adjusted; but I am assured that there is a probability of that matter being brought to a close during your present session.

Whatever will foster the great interests of agriculture, commerce and manufactures, cannot fail to engage your attention on that account. Although our former agricultural societies, from inherent defects, were speedily dissolved in most of the counties, yet they produced much good. I would recommend their revival by State authority, under an organization more simple, and therefore more durable. I should not advise the appropriation of any money out of the treasury, or the granting of power to raise any; and I very much doubt the policy of granting any rewards or prizes. The main object of an agricultural society should be, to bring farmers together once or twice a year, to receive and communicate information on the subject of their pursuits, and to exhibit the productions of their farms, their industry and their skill. Under its patronage, and subject to its government, well regulated fairs might be permitted to become permanently established.

It is not forty years since cotton began to be cultivated in our southern States as an article of commerce, and sugar has been much more recently introduced; yet now they are the staple commodities of many of those States. Most articles of culture are said to flourish best near the northern margin of the zone of their growth: thus, the Sea Island cotton, transplanted from a more southern latitude, has attained to a length of staple, beauty and strength of fibre, in some of our southern States, which renders it an unrivalled article in market; and the sweet potatoe, indigenous under a tropical sun, where it expends itself in vines, becomes a valuable edible in a more northern situation, and flourishes well even in this climate. With such results before us, we should not despair of seeing the vine, the mulberry, and various productions of our own and more southern latitudes, which are not now raised, or for the cultivation of which feeble attempts are made, among the ordinary productions of our agricultural industry.

The United States census having been completed, it will devolve upon you to reorganize the districts for electing representatives in Congress. I presume the ratio will be determined upon in season, to enable you to discharge that duty before your adjournment.

Several communications, received from the respective Governors of the States of New-Hampshire, Maine, Connecticut and Delaware, accompanied by reports and resolutions from the several Legislatures of their respective States, are transmitted to you herewith.

I respectfully commend to your patronage those survivors of the revolutionary war, however inconsiderable their services may have been in the army, who have not been provided for by the government. Among them are some whose sacrifices were great, and whose services, although of an unpretending nature, were of great importance to the country. To make liberal provision for their wants, is an act which would leave no regrets ; and it should be our pride in this day of our prosperity, to cherish those venerable remnants of a by-gone heroic age. An early expression of your wishes in their behalf, may quicken the action of that body upon whom the obligation rests.

Permit me, in conclusion, to assure you of my readiness to co-operate with you in all such measures as tend to strengthen our political institutions, to promote the honor and prosperity of the country, and to add to the happiness of our fellow-citizens.

DOCUMENTS ACCOMPANYING THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

[No. I.]

STATE OF CONNECTICUT,
Executive Department, June 30th, 1831. }

SIR—

In compliance with a resolution of the General Assembly of this State, I herewith transmit to you a copy of a report adopted, and of resolutions passed by that body, at its late session.

I have, Sir, the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN S. PETERS.

To His Excellency, the Governor of New-York.

REPORT AND RESOLUTIONS.

At a General Assembly of the State of Connecticut, holden at Hartford in said State, on the first Wednesday of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one.

The Joint Committee, appointed to take into consideration such part of the Message of the Governor as relates to the Constitution and Judiciary of the United States, with the accompanying documents relative to those subjects, report :

That they have had under consideration the part of the Message of the Governor referred to them ; and also a communication from the Governor of Vermont, covering certain resolutions of the Legislature of that State relative to the amendments of the Constitution of the United States, proposed to the Legislatures of Georgia and Louisiana, touching the manner of election, and the term of service of the President and Vice-President of the United States. The Legislature of this State, at their session in 1830, having passed an opinion upon this subject, in which your committee fully coincide, they deem it unnecessary to go into it again.

Your committee have also had under consideration certain resolutions of the General Assembly of Ohio, relative to appropriations made by the General Government in aid of the colonization society. As it does not appear that the government have ever made, or contemplated making, such appropriations, this Legislature will doubtless concur with the General Assembly of Ohio, in the opinion that it is premature and inexpedient to express any opinion whether such appropriations be or be not constitutional.

Your committee have also had under consideration certain resolutions of the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, relative to the judicial power of the United States; a subject of sufficient importance to justify a more extended notice.

At a period when, in some portions of our country, a disposition is manifested to array the jealousies of the people against the judicial department of the Government of the United States; when executive officers are instructed, in all the formality of legislative enactment, to disregard the legal precepts of the Supreme Court of the United States, it well becomes those who regard a dissolution of our Union as one of the most dreadful of political evils, to interpose a mild, but firm expression of their opinion. The People, by their sovereign pleasure, created by the same act the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the Federal Government. The inefficiency of the old confederation to secure respect and obedience, taught them the necessity of so organizing the Federal Government, that it could lay its hand upon individuals, and thus directly enforce the laws of the Union, and protect those acting under them from injury or interruption, by the laws of any one of the States. It was the force of external circumstances only, that gave to the recommendations of the old Congress the authority of laws. When the outward pressure was removed, the Union was practically dissolved, and anarchy ensued. Without the judicial department the Congress of the United States would now be but an assemblage of ambassadors, whose efficiency would begin and end in advisory consultations: the people would obey, or not, as their interest and feelings might dictate. The courts of the several states partake, too readily, of local jealousies and excitements, to be entrusted with the final determination of questions involving the validity or construction of the federal laws; and questions of policy of much less importance than those which now agitate our country, would soon put an end to our ephemeral Union. The judicial department, therefore, constitutes one of those peculiarities which distinguish the present government from the old confederation—a co-ordinate branch—which, in the opinion of your committee, is absolutely necessary for the successful organization of our government.

It being one of the first principles of a republic, that the legislative and judicial departments be kept entirely distinct, the patriot has nothing to apprehend from the power or ambition of the courts. Speaking of the three great departments, an eminent civilian says, "the judiciary is next to nothing." It has indeed no power over the wealth or strength of the nation. It has neither force nor will, but merely judgment, and cannot enforce even that, without the aid of the execution. Without the parade or pomp of power, with no influence even, except such as profound learning, enlarged philosophy and distinguished talents always exert over the human intellect, the great questions of constitutional right and private obligation are quietly discussed, settled and recorded—the judges retire from the bench, and the decree is enforced by other hands. Where the legislative power is absolute, the judiciary, if there be one, is but the register and executioner of its edicts; but in a government of defined and limited powers, like that of the United States, where the people, in the great charter of their liberties, by which they have created the Legislature, have also, in the same instrument, prescribed the objects and the extent of the power of that Legislature, an independent judiciary is absolutely indispensable, for the protection of the people in their reserved rights, and for the preservation of every department of the government in its appropriate and destined action. It is, indeed, the great balance wheel of the constitution; which from its own weakness needs, and its inestimable value deserves the constant care and vigilance of the community, to protect it from the attacks of the other departments of the government, both state and federal. It should be composed of our most pure, wise and able men, placed permanently in their offices and salaries, where no fear can intimidate, nor hope seduce them. Although our government has secured the services of men of the greatest virtue and talents, yet neither their private worth, their public services, nor the inestimable value of their official functions, have been sufficient to protect them from the operation of local factions and jealousies. In view of these various considerations, your committee would recommend the adoption of the subjoined resolutions, as declaratory of that portion of the public opinion, which this Legislature has the honor to express.

Signed per order,

WM. W. BOARDMAN,
Chairman.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the constitution of the United States, and the laws and treaties made in pursuance thereof, are the supreme law of the land; and the judges and magistrates, in every state, are bound thereby, any thing in the constitution or laws of any state, to the contrary notwithstanding.

Resolved, That we regard the judicial department of the government of the United States, as sacred in its origin, and as invaluable in its purposes and objects, as either the executive or legislative departments; and we also regard the designs of any community to destroy it, or to paralyze its influence, among the people of these states, as the manifestation of feelings unfriendly to the permanent interests of our common country.

STATE OF MAINE.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
Portland, October 26, 1831. }

Sir—

Agreeably to a duty assigned me by the Legislature of the State of Maine, I have the honor herewith to transmit to your Excellency the accompanying report and resolve respecting the tariff and internal improvements, for the purpose of being submitted to the Legislature of your State.

With the highest respect and consideration,

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

SAM'L E. SMITH.

To His Excellency Governor of New-York.

STATE OF MAINE. }

In Senate, March 29, 1831. }

The Joint Select Committee to which was referred so much of the Governor's message as relates to internal improvements and surplus revenue; and to which were also referred the resolution of the General Assembly of the State of Delaware, approving the tariff of 1828; the resolutions of the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana, approving the tariff; and the report and resolutions of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, advocating a system of internal improvements to be executed by the Federal Government and approving the tariff, have had the same under consideration and submit the following

REPORT:—

The power of the government of the United States to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises for the purpose of paying the debts and providing for the common defence and general welfare of the Union is expressly granted in the Constitution, and, it is believed, has never been denied by those, who are opposed to, and oppressed by the tariff of 1828. The complaints, which have been made, and justly, against the tariff, are that it is unequal in its operation, unnecessarily oppressive, and imposes upon the people a burdensome taxation, indirect, it is true, but not the less onerous and grievous, for objects evidently not contemplated by the Constitution, and, therefore, not authorized by that instrument.

The committee can not concur in the opinion, expressed by the General Assembly of Kentucky, that "the grant in the Constitution to Congress of the power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises is without limitation, except that they shall be uniform throughout the United States, and except also in the case of direct taxes, that they are to be apportioned among the several States, according to their respective numbers, determined by a prescribed rule." The grant of this power is most obviously limited and restricted to the raising of a revenue for the purpose, as before stated, of paying the debts and providing for the common defence and general welfare of the Union. These purposes can be legitimately executed by the Federal Government only by the exercise of the powers granted in the Constitution to Congress, and in the manner and to the extent by that instrument prescribed. It is believed, that the doctrine advanced by Kentucky is too broad and that it does not find support in the Constitution. It asserts a power in Congress to raise money for all purposes without limitation, except as to the manner. But will it be pretended, that Congress can, under that grant of power, lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises for the purpose of maintaining an army in Europe to coerce and compel the people of any nation to there to submit to the existing government? for the purpose of constructing roads and canals in France? or for the purpose of paying the national debt of Great Britain? No one will contend that Congress can do so. Neither will it be pretended, that Congress can lay and collect taxes for the purpose of paying the debts of the individual States, or the debts of private corporations, from whatever source they may derive their existence, or for the purpose of supporting the gospel ministry in the several towns and cities in the Union, however extensively such an expenditure might promote the general welfare. It is clear, then, that the power of Congress to raise money is not without limitation, except as to the mode of raising it, and can be legitimately exercised only for certain purposes; the purposes, and those only, for which the Federal Government was established.

And what are the purposes for which the several States confederated and formed the government of the United States? Certainly not for the management of the domestic concerns of the individual States, for each State still retains absolute sovereignty over her domestic affairs. The several States by their compact of Union, the Constitution of the United States, united so much of their individual sovereignty, as was sufficient to place them in the position, in relation to all other sovereign States, of an individual sovereign power, leaving each State, as it respects its internal concerns, a separate and independent sovereignty; and, when they granted to the Federal Government so much power as would enable it to maintain that position for the common defence and general welfare of all the States, as a whole, so far as foreign nations were concerned, they also granted to that government the power, and imposed upon it the obligation, of securing inviolate to each of them respectively its individual sovereignty over its own domestic affairs. The great objects to be effected and accomplished, by the establishment of the Federal Government, appear to be, to protect and defend each and all the States against the action of foreign governments, by making all the States one and indivisible as to those governments; to prevent collision and preserve harmony among them, as separate sovereignties; to secure to each a republican form of government, and by consequence to prevent the coalition, or consolidation of the several States into a government, inconsistent with the individual sovereignty of each. It is believed, that these are the objects intended to be effected by the formation of the Union, or confederation, existing between the several States, and that the powers, granted in the Constitution to Congress, and intended to be exercised by the government of the United States, all look to their accomplishment. Any exercise of power, therefore, by the Federal Government, however it might, in the estimation of that government, tend to promote the general welfare of the several States, unless it relates to these objects and is specifically delegated in and by the Constitution, or is necessary to the execution of a specifically delegated power, is wholly unauthorised, and must be regarded as an encroachment upon the rights of the States, or of the people.

The question then occurs;—Is the power of raising a revenue for the purpose of making internal improvements, such internal improvements, as the several States, in their individual character, are competent, without the aid or consent of the Federal Government, to make, in the manner and at the times, each State may deem it proper, a power necessary to effect the objects for which the Union was formed? and is it granted in the Constitution to Congress? That this power is expressly granted no one will pretend. Is it then incident to any power so granted? If it be incident to any power specifically granted, it must be necessary for carrying that power into execution. But which of the powers expressly granted to Congress, it may be asked, can not be fully exercised and executed without the power of making those internal improvements, which the several States are acknowledged to be competent to make without the consent of Congress? or rather, which of the powers expressly granted to Congress could not be completely executed, even if it had been expressly declared, in the Constitution, that Congress should not have the power to make internal improvements? It is believed no one, however strenuous an advocate for a system of internal improvements, will pretend, that Congress could not fully execute all the powers specifically granted in the Constitution, even if this power had been expressly denied. This power of making internal improvements, then, not being expressly granted in the Constitution, and not being incident to any power so granted, or in other words, this power not being one of “the powers delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, is reserved to the States respectively, or to the people,” and, therefore, can not be legitimately exercised by Congress.

A system of internal improvements is clearly, then, not an object for which Congress has the power of raising a revenue, or for which any surplus revenue, in the Treasury of the United States, can be expended, under the existing Constitution. It has been very justly asserted by the Legislature of South Carolina, “that it is an unconstitutional exercise of power on the part of Congress, to tax the citizens of one State, to make roads and canals for another State,” and notwithstanding the broad and unqualified power, asserted in Congress by the General Assembly of Kentucky, to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises without limitation, except as to the mode, that General Assembly feels and admits the force of the objection, but disavows the knowledge or belief “that Congress has ever, in fact, taxed the citizens of one State, to make roads and canals for another." "If that had been done," they say, "it would be admitted to be unconstitutional." If Congress has applied any portion of the funds of the general government, collected from the resources of the several States, or from their joint property, for the purpose of making roads or canals in individual States, have not the citizens not only of one State, but of all the States, in fact been taxed, not directly, but indirectly, to make roads or canals in a single State? The circumstance, that taxation for this purpose is indirect, cannot change the principle. That Congress has thus applied a part of the revenue of the United States, it is believed, none will deny. Will it, then, be pretended that the citizens of one State have not in fact been taxed to make roads or canals for another State, because the citizens of all the States have been taxed to the same extent for that purpose? If, then, this cannot be asserted, or pretended, with truth, and it cannot, unless the number of the citizens of all the States does not embrace and comprehend the citizens of each of the States, upon the principle unequivocally conceded by the General Assembly of Kentucky, it must be admitted, that the application of the funds of the United States, raised by "taxes, duties, imposts and excises," to the construction of roads and canals in the individual States, is unconstitutional.

While your committee believe, that no intelligent citizen of the United States will deny to Congress the power to lay and collect a direct tax, in want of funds obtained in the usual mode by duties on imports, for the purpose of constructing and maintaining fortifications in any one of the States for the defence of that State, they apprehend that few can be found, who would hazard their reputation for intelligence and discretion by asserting the power in Congress to lay and collect a direct tax for the purpose of constructing and maintaining roads and canals in the several States. And why, it may be asked, do not the advocates of a system of internal improvements, to be executed by the federal government, openly and boldly maintain the power in Congress to raise money by direct taxation for that purpose? Congress can certainly lay and collect a direct tax for any purpose for which it can raise a revenue by indirect taxation, in the shape of duties on imported articles, such as is imposed by the Tariff; and if it is admitted, that Congress can constitutionally impose duties on imports for the purpose of carrying on a system of internal improvements, it must also be conceded, that it has the power to impose direct taxes upon the people for that purpose. And it may safely be predicted, that as soon as the means, derived from the former source, prove insufficient, resort will unquestionably be had to the latter, if the several States, disregarding their interests and individual rights, acquiesce in and countenance the exercise of the power, assumed by Congress, to make appropriations of the funds of the United States for the purposes of internal improvements. But the friends of this system carefully and studiously keep out of view this most certain and unavoidable consequence of their loose construction of the Constitution, direct taxes upon the people, to any extent Congress shall think proper to fix. Let the people admit the soundness and correctness of this doctrine, and they may expect in a few years a Tariff more ruinous, than the present, to the commercial interests of the country, and with that direct taxation ; they may expect, and they will most assuredly find, that burdens, grievous to be borne, will be imposed upon them, both by direct and indirect taxes. Let the States yield up their rightful jurisdiction over "internal improvements" to the general government, and let the people sanction the doctrine, which asserts in Congress, under the present Constitution, the power to make them ; and there can be no bounds set to the innovations, which the federal government may claim to make in the administration of State affairs, under the name of what she may determine to be internal improvements ; the general government might determine, if she were permitted to adopt all measures, which may be supposed to promote the general welfare, that a change in the Constitution and laws of the several States, would be greater internal improvements than the construction of roads and canals ; and, if the States supinely acquiesce in the assumption of power by Congress to make internal improvements by constructing roads and canals, what security is there to the States and to the people, that the general government will not assume to make what she may consider internal improvements, by changing the Constitution and laws of the several States, whenever she may think the general welfare may be thereby promoted ?

These are only a few of the ruinous and monstrous consequences which must be expected to result, from the exercise of a power by the general government to execute a system of internal improvements ; a power which, it is admitted, is not expressly given in the Constitution to Congress, and which that body can claim to exercise only by a forced and latitudinarian construction of the Constitution. This system, which Congress have not the rightful power to execute, and which could not be executed by the general government, if she had the necessary power, without resorting to a tariff much higher than that of 1828, and also to direct taxation upon the people, if the system is to be carried on to an extent corresponding in any degree with the views and wishes of its advocates, is no other, than the system falsely and absurdly called the "American System." This system, that appears never to have been contemplated by the framers of the Constitution, which is the supreme law of the land ; which expresses all the powers intended to be vested in Congress, and which ought to be construed in favor of those, who granted the powers therein enumerated and upon whom they are to be exercised, and most rigidly and strictly against those by whom those powers are to be executed, is attempted to be supported and carried into effect by a construction of the Constitution, that, if sanctioned, will justify the exercise of any power by Congress, which that body may choose to assume. This system, which, if adopted, will tend to the certain destruction of the State sovereignties, finds advocates among patriotic citizens, because the designing and ambitious, by successful artifice, have concealed its ugliness and deformity, and even made it appear beautiful and fascinating, by clothing it in a garb furnished by a name, "The American System."

Let this system be sanctioned without an amendment to the Constitution, and one step, or to speak more properly, an alarming stride, is taken towards the destruction of that, which to the friends of civil liberty and republican institutions is most dear, a written Constitution. Let the advocates of a system of internal improvements, to be executed by the general government, succeed in their objects, without an amendment of the Constitution of the United States, and the true AMERICAN SYSTEM, that upon which all our hopes of maintaining a republican government and free institutions depend, will inevitably be demolished, and the fair and noble edifice, which our fathers erected for our protection and happiness, instead of being preserved for the benefit of posterity, will fall in undistinguishing ruin, as well upon the heads of the innocent, as of those, whose sacrilegious hands shall remove its supporting pillars. The only system that is worthy of, or that ought for a moment to be admitted to be entitled to, the name of "THE AMERICAN SYSTEM," is that, which appears in the written Constitutions of the United States and of the several States, and this system can only be preserved by a rigid and scrupulous adherence, in the most minute particulars, to the principles in them established, and by frowning with indignation upon all and hurling them from places of trust, who shall seek to exercise powers not delegated to them by the Constitution, or seek to accomplish objects other than those for which they may be placed in power. This system of written Constitutions needs not the aid of constructive powers to carry it into full and complete effect. It provides by its own prescribed rules for enlarging or modifying the powers of the servants of the people ; and when the powers already granted to their servants are found to be too limited, the people, who are the only proper judges of what powers ought to be delegated, will enlarge the powers granted, or give others, according to their sovereign will and pleasure, the only power having control over Constitutions. This system requires all placed in office to exercise only so much power as is plainly given in the written rule by which their conduct is to be governed, and to abstain from the exercise of all doubtful power, however usefully such power might be exercised, if granted ; because it is a material part of the system, that public servants, whether they act individually, or in legislative bodies, shall exercise no power, except what is clearly granted by a written Constitution, or other law, interpreted according to its plain and obvious meaning.

This system can alone claim the honorable and distinguishing appellation and title of the American System, and every system which is found to conflict with the principles of this, must be rejected and detested, however fascinating and alluring it may appear under the garb of a borrowed, or stolen, name. And the system of internal improvements, to be executed by the general government, must be regarded as conflicting with the American System, because it can only be carried into effect by the exercise of a power not delegated to Congress ; because it proposes to effect objects by the exercise of constructive powers, which would unquestionably have been expressly granted to the federal government, if it had been intended that that government should exercise them, and because it proposes to subject to the action of the general government those things, which are more appropriately subject to the action of the State governments, and which the latter governments are perfectly competent to manage, without the aid or consent of the United States.

Whatever other powers Congress may possess, your Committee are satisfied, that the power of executing a system of internal improvements does not belong to the federal government, and they most fully concur in the justness of the remarks, contained in the Governor's Message, that "the course, which has been pursued by the general government in the appropriations for the purposes of internal improvement, from the direct bearing, which it has upon the equal rights, interests, and sovereignty of the individual States, has become a subject of too great importance to be now regarded with indifference, or suffered to pass by without being presented to the consideration of the Legislature and people of this State. If it should continue to be the policy of the United States to raise an annual revenue from duties on imports and from other sources, more than sufficient for the gradual extinction of the public debt, and the ordinary expenses of the government, the surplus fund will remain in the national treasury, without any benefit resulting therefrom to the people, or some constitutional mode must be devised for its appropriation and expenditure."

Believing that the States are fully competent, and better qualified, than the general government, from their more intimate knowledge of the wants of the people, to make internal improvements, to the extent required and at the most suitable times, according to the ability of the people to contribute to those objects; that no more money should be collected into the national treasury, than the ordinary exigencies of the government require; that much money must be lost to the people by collecting it into the national treasury for distribution among the several States, and that that policy is best calculated to promote the true interests of the people, which requires the least taxation; and believing also that every attempt, by public functionaries, to exercise powers not delegated to them, should meet the marked disapprobation of the several States, as tending to the injury of the people, by marring the true American System and violating its essential principles, and as encroaching upon the rights of the States; your committee, therefore, recommend the passage of the following Resolutions.

JOHN L. MEGQUIER, Chairman.

IN SENATE, March 29, 1831.—Read and accepted. Sent down for concurrence.

STATE OF MAINE.

Resolve respecting the Tariff and Internal Improvements.

Resolved, That the Government of the United States, not having the power of executing a system of internal improvements expressly granted to it in the Constitution, and that power not being necessary for carrying into execution any powers so granted, ought not, in raising a revenue, to consider internal improvements among the purposes, for which it may lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises.

Resolved, That the Tariff of duties on imports ought to be so modified, if possible, a due regard being had to all the interests of the country, that the receipts, from them and the other sources of revenue, into the treasury of the United States shall not greatly exceed the ordinary annual expenses of the Government.

Resolved, That, if with a due regard to all the essential interests of the country the duties on imports cannot be so reduced, that no surplus fund shall remain in the national treasury, after paying the ordinary and necessary annual expenses of the government, such surplus ought to be equitably distributed among the several States in a mode and by a rule to be prescribed by an amendment to the Constitution.

Resolved, That the Governor be, and he is hereby requested to transmit a copy of the foregoing Report and Resolutions to the Executive of each of the States, that they may be submitted to the Legislatures of the same for their consideration; and also a copy to each of the Senators and Representatives of Maine in Congress.

IN SENATE, March 29, 1831.—Read and passed. Sent down for concurrence.

ROBERT P. DUNLAP, President.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, March 30, 1831.—This Resolve was read twice and passed in concurrence with the Senate.

SIR—

I hereby transmit to you a copy of a resolution adopted by the Legislature of this State at the last session.

I have the honor to be,

Sir, with great respect,

Your most obedient servant,

SAMUEL DINSMOOR.

To his Excellency the Governor of New-York.

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That the Senators of this State in the Congress of the United States be instructed, and the Representatives requested, to use their exertions to procure the passage of a law for the more perfect organization of the militia of the several states.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor be requested to transmit copies of these resolutions to the Senators and Representatives of this State in Congress, and also to the Governors of the other States, that the same may be submitted to the Legislatures thereof for their consideration.

Approved, July 1, 1831. (A true copy.)

Sir—

I have the honor herewith to transmit to your Excellency, a copy of the resolutions of the General Assembly of the State of Delaware, in relation to the Tariff of the United States, and to internal improvements.

Very respectfully,
I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,
DAVID HAZZARD.

To his Excellency the Governor of the State of New-York.

IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, }
January Session, 1831. }

The committee to whom was referred so much of the Governor's message as relates to the tariff and internal improvements; and to whom was also referred sundry resolutions of the General Assembly of the States of Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Louisiana, Ohio and Kentucky, approbatory of the tariff of 1828, have had those subjects under consideration, and beg leave to report the following resolutions:

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware in General Assembly met, That this General Assembly do concur in the resolution of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania by which it is declared, "that the tariff of eighteen hundred and twenty-eight accords with the spirit of the constitution of the United States, and that it maintains the true principles of protection to the industry of the country against foreign policy and legislation;" and also in the opinion of the General Assemblies of the States of Louisiana and Vermont, in which they have declared the law of 1828, on the tariff, to be expedient and harmless to the southern States.

Resolved, That the construction of works of internal improvement by Congress, is, in the opinion of this General Assembly, not only within the constitutional powers of the Congress of the United States, but that the exercise of such power is highly expedient.

Resolved further, That the Governor of this State be requested to transmit copies of the above resolutions to our Representative and our Senators in Congress; and also to forward a copy to the Governors of the several States, with a request that they will lay the same before their respective Legislatures.

Adopted : January 12, 1831.

SIR—

I have the honor, herewith, to transmit to your Excellency a copy of the Resolutions of the General Assembly of the State of Delaware, in relation to the surviving officers and soldiers of the Revolutionary army, &c.

Very respectfully,

I have the honor to be

Your obedient servant,

DAVID HAZZARD.

To His Excellency the Governor of the State of New-York.

In the Legislature of the State of Delaware, at the January session thereof, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one.

The committee to whom was referred so much of the Governor's Message as relates to the surviving officers and soldiers of the Revolutionary army, who are not entitled to pensions under any existing law, beg leave to report:

That, having examined the memorial signed on behalf of the surviving officers and soldiers of the war of the Revolution, from the commencement of hostilities, in 1775, to the first day of October, 1780, the period at which the new organization of the army took place—Your committee is deeply impressed with the importance of the services rendered by the memorialists, and which were prompted by a spontaneous and disinterested patriotism. Your committee would, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolutions :

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware, in General Assembly met, That the Legislature of this State do fully accord with His Excellency, and with the sentiments expressed in the memorial by him alluded to : and that they feel that not only a debt of gratitude and respect is due to those venerable patriots of the Revolution, but that liberal and ample compensation should be awarded them ; and that our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to use all proper means for effecting an object at once so laudable, so reasonable and so just.

Resolved, That His Excellency the Governor be, and he is hereby requested to forward a copy of the above preamble and resolution to each of our Senators, and to our Representative in Congress.

Adopted at Dover, January 27, 1831.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
Georgetown, March 4th, 1831. }

SIR—

I have the honor, herewith, to transmit to your Excellency, the following resolutions of the General Assembly of the state of Delaware, relative to the Public Lands of the United States.

Very respectfully, I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

DAVID HAZZARD.

To His Excellency the Governor of the State of New-York.

IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, }
January Session, 1831. }

The committee to whom was referred so much of the Governor's message as relates to the distribution of the revenue arising from the sale of the Public Lands of the Union among the several States for the purpose of education, &c. report :

That the citizens of this State view with deep solicitude the efforts lately made in the National Legislature to deprive the Atlantic States of their just and equitable rights to the Public Lands of the Union—Rights which they claim to hold in common with all the States, and which were asserted by, and conceded to them at the laying of the foundation of the Constitution of the Union. It is an inheritance which they claim as the purchase of their treasures and of their blood, and is too highly appreciated by them, to be relinquished without an equivalent, and too dearly bought to be wantonly lavished away.

The citizens of Delaware have beheld with pain and anxiety, attempts which have lately been made in Congress thus to deprive them of a conceded right, and dissipate the revenue derivable from those lands by forcing sales within a short period of time and at mere nominal prices. They consider such a scheme as nothing less than a virtual alienation of their right, and a wanton sacrifice of their interest to the cupidity and avarice of speculators, many of whom it would seem are as mercenary and unprincipled in their views, as they are active and vociferous in their support of them. The people of Delaware look forward to the time when the National debt shall have been liquidated (to the payment of which, the revenue accruing from the sales of Public Lands is pledged) as a suitable and auspicious period, after which the said revenue may be distributed among the several States of the Union for the purpose of extending the means of education, and thereby promoting the general welfare of the Union, strengthening its bands and perpetuating its blessings. Your committee would, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:—

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware in General Assembly met, That this Legislature views with a jealous eye every attempt to make a partial distribution of the Public Lands of the Union among the States, whether by direct grant to a State, or by nominal sales at reduced prices to the citizens thereof.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this General Assembly the revenue arising from the sale of the Public Lands of the Union, ought to be distributed among the several States, for the purpose of extending the means of education throughout the Republic, as soon as the liquidation of the National debt shall warrant the same.

Resolved, That our Senators and our Representatives in the National Legislature be and they are hereby requested to exert themselves to procure such an appropriation of the funds available from the sales of those lands, as shall foster and promote the cause of education throughout the Union.

Resolved, That this General Assembly do approve most heartily, the manly and able stand maintained by our Representation in the Senate of the United States, in defending and sustaining the right and interest of the State, upon the question of the disposal of the western dominions of the Union.

Resolved, That the foregoing report and resolutions be signed by the Speakers of the Senate and of the House of Representatives respectively, and that a copy be transmitted to each of our Senators and to our Representatives in Congress, and that the Executive of each state be furnished with a copy by the Governor, and requested to lay the same before their respective legislatures.

Adopted at Dover, January 28, 1831.

SIR—

I have the honor herewith to transmit to your Excellency, the following Resolutions of the General Assembly of the State of Delaware, relative to the amendments of the Constitution of the United States, proposed by the General Assemblies of the States of Louisiana and Missouri, and to request the same to be laid before the Legislature of the State over which you reside.

Very respectfully, sir,

I have the honor to be

Your obedient servant,

DAVID HAZZARD,
Governor of the State of Delaware.

To His Excellency the Governor of New-York.

In the Legislature of the State of Delaware, at the January session thereof, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one.

The committee to whom was referred that part of the Governor's Message which relates to the amendments proposed by the General Assembly of Louisiana and Missouri, to the Constitution of the United States, have given to the subject their serious consideration, and it is the opinion of the committee that it is inexpedient at this time to make the proposed alterations. They therefore respectfully recommend the adoption of the following resolutions :

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware, in General Assembly met, That this General Assembly does not concur with the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana, in the proposal to amend the Constitution of the United States, so as to extend the term of office of President and Vice-President to six years, and to render the President ineligible.

Resolved by the authority aforesaid, That this General Assembly does not concur with the General Assembly of the State of Missouri in the proposal to amend the Constitution of the United States, so as to provide a uniform mode of electing the President and Vice-President of the United States, without the intervention of electors, and that the election of President and Vice-President should, in no case whatever, be submitted to the decision of the House of Representatives of the United States.

Resolved, That His Excellency the Governor be requested to forward copies of the foregoing resolutions to the executives of the several states, with a request that they be laid before their respective legislatures.

Adopted at Dover, January 28, 1831.

Mr. T. Smith offered for the consideration of the House, a resolution, with a recital, in the words following, to wit :

Whereas the State of New-York, in its extent, possessing high, diversified and numerous interests ; its inhabitants living and legislating for half a century under the mild influence of political institutions intended to be equal and just, experience has aided to elicit many important considerations in the economy of government, improvements matured, tending to the amelioration of the condition, and eminently contributing to the benefit of man ; yet it is but too obvious that amidst the march of mind, the spread of knowledge and the searching penetration of genius, perfection is far from being arrived at : A vaulting ambition, dazzled by the grand, and reaching after the splendid, too often overlooks and neglects the useful ; and that to institute an inquiry into the general system of apprenticeship, for the purpose of applying such remedies as will appear best adapted to insure in apprentices, fidelity, contribute to health, improvement and elevation of character, enlarge their sphere of action, and increase their usefulness when arrived to years of maturity, an inquiry alike invited by the wants of the recipients and the paramount interests of the great community, is a subject worthy the highest regard and best attention of a patriotic Legislature : Therefore,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to inquire into the general system of this State relating to apprentices, and report if said system in their opinion admits of improvements, in what particulars, and if by them deemed expedient, with their opinion to report a bill for the purpose aforesaid.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

A communication from the Secretary of State, was read, in the words following, to wit :

STATE OF NEW-YORK, }
SECRETARY'S OFFICE. }

Albany, February 7, 1862.

The Secretary of State, in presenting to the Legislature the annual report of the directors of the New-York Institution for the instruction of the deaf and dumb, which has been transmitted to him for that purpose, begs leave to say, that he visited the school in October last, and that the character of the teachers and the system of instruction are such as to entitle this institution to the entire confidence of the public, and to a continuation of the favorable countenance of the Legislature.

The annual report required of the Superintendent of Common Schools, by title three of chapter fifteen, will be presented to the Legislature as soon as it can be prepared.

All which is respectfully submitted.

A. C. FLAGG.

CHARLES L. LIVINGSTON,
Speaker of the Assembly.

[See Document No. 101.]

Ordered, That the said communication be laid upon the table.

Ordered, That double the usual number of copies of the same be printed for the use of the Legislature.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution and recital heretofore offered by Mr. T. Smith ; the same were again read, in the words following, to wit :

Whereas the State of New-York, in its extent, possessing high, diversified and numerous interests ; its inhabitants living and legislating for half a century under the mild influence of political institutions intended to be equal and just, experience has aided to elicit many important considerations in the economy of government, improvements matured, tending to the amelioration of the condition, and eminently contributing to the benefit of man ; yet it is but too obvious that amidst the march of mind, the spread of knowledge and the searching penetration of genius, perfection is far from being arrived at : A vaulting ambition, dazzled by the grand, and reaching after the splendid, too often overlooks and neglects the useful ; and that to institute an inquiry into the general system of apprenticeship, for the purpose of applying such remedies as will appear best adapted to insure in apprentices, fidelity, contribute to health, improvement and elevation of character, enlarge their sphere of action, and increase their usefulness when arrived to years of maturity, an inquiry alike invited by the wants of the recipients and the paramount interests of the great community, is a subject worthy the highest regard and best attention of a patriotic Legislature : Therefore,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to inquire into the general system of this State relating to apprentices, and report if said system in their opinion admits of improvements, in what particulars, and if by them deemed expedient, with their opinion to report a bill for the purpose aforesaid.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree thereto, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That Mr. T. Smith, Mr. Babbitt and Mr. Crooker, be the said committee.

Mr. Spencer gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill, entitled "An act to protect the side-walks in the village of Fort-Covington."

Mr. Spencer also gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill, entitled "An act to authorise the erection of toll-gates on the great military road leading from Plattsburgh to the east line of the county of St. Lawrence, and for other purposes."

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions of the Senate, relative to a renewal of the charter of the Bank of the United States; the same were again read, in the words following, to wit:

Whereas the Bank of the United States has applied to Congress for a renewal of its charter: Therefore,

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That it is the sentiment of this Legislature, that the charter of the Bank of the United States ought not to be renewed; and that our senators in Congress be instructed, and our representatives respectfully requested, to vote against such renewal.

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the Secretary of State transmit to each of the senators and representatives in Congress of this State, a copy of the foregoing resolution.

Mr. King made a motion that the House should agree to amend the first of the said resolutions, by inserting after the word "renewed," the words "with its present powers and provisions."

Debates were had upon the said motion of Mr. King; and the question being put whether the House would agree thereto, it was determined in the negative.

Albany, February 9, 1832.

SIR,

The resolutions of the two Houses of the Legislature, appointing me Treasurer of this State, have been received. In accepting the station to which the partiality of the Legislature has again appointed me, allow me to express through you to the members of the House over which you have the honor of presiding, my grateful acknowledgments for the high honor conferred by this renewed proof of their confidence.

With great respect,

Your humble servant,

A. KEYSER.

HON. CHARLES L. LIVINGSTON,
Speaker of the Assembly.

Mr. Spencer offered for the consideration of the House, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That a committee of nine members be appointed, whose duty it shall be to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and report from time to time such as in their unanimous opinion may with propriety be referred to a select committee to report complete; but no bill shall be recommended to be so referred, against the passage of which there is a remonstrance, nor any bill concerning a monied corporation, or appropriating the public money.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. T. Smith asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act to repeal the thirty-third section of an act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and other purposes, passed April 2d, 1829, as relates to receiving by said corporations on loans or discounts of said incorporations, seven per centum per annum ;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the bill entitled "An act in relation to the Troy water-works company, and for insuring to the city of Troy a supply of water for the extinguishment of fires, and other purposes."

Also the bill entitled "An act to authorise George W. Cockman and Eliza Cockman to change their names."

Also the bill entitled "An act to change the name of the Associate reformed congregation of Neelytown in Orange county."

Also the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Walden company."
E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 20, 1832.

The Senate sent for concurrence, a bill entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Fort-Plain in the county of Montgomery;" a bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Poughkeepsie whaling company;" a bill entitled "An act relative to State prisons," and a bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Auburn and Owasco canal company."

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Fort-Plain in the county of Montgomery," was referred to the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages; the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Poughkeepsie whaling company," was referred to the committee on trade and manufactures; the bill entitled "An act in relation to State prisons," was referred to the committee on State prisons; and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Auburn and Owasco canal company," was referred to the committee on canals and internal improvements, severally to consider and report thereon.

A message from the Senate was read, informing that they have concurred with this House in its amendments to the bill entitled "An act to authorise the erection of a new jail in the county of Chautauque," and have amended the same accordingly.

The said amended bill having been examined,

Ordered, That the clerk return the same to the Senate.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Troy City Bank," and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Clinton County Bank," be printed for the use of the Legislature.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the consideration of the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Redford glass company," and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Palmer, Mr. Spencer and Mr. Vanderwarker, to consider and report thereon.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the consideration of the bill entitled "An act authorising the commissioners of highways of the town of Geneseo to lay out a public highway in said town, of a less width than three rods;" and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Young, Mr. Patterson and Mr. Gates, to consider and report thereon.

On motion of Mr. Seymour,

Resolved, That Oliver Scovil is hereby appointed Sergeant-at-Arms of this House, to serve during the absence of James D. Scollard.

On motion of Mr. Van Schaick,

Resolved, That the clerk furnish a list of the banks reported by the committee on banks and insurance companies for incorporation, with the amount of their capital respectively; and that the usual number of copies be printed.

[See Document No. 229.]

Mr. Hammond gave notice that he would, at some future day, ask leave to bring in a resolution to rescind the forty-ninth standing rule of this House, for unconstitutionality; in that it requires more than a constitutional quorum to transact ordinary business, and disfranchises the members of this House so that they cannot move an ordinary question, and thereby invades the liberties of the people and abridges their rights.

He also gave notice that he would ask leave, at the same time, to move the abrogation of so much of the fiftieth standing rule or order as follows the word "therefor" in the fourth line, and as is contained in the four last lines of the said rule; which passage so to be expunged is as follows, that is to say: "nor shall the forty-ninth rule be altered, unless two-thirds of all the members elected to this House agree to such alteration." So that the fiftieth standing rule may, when so amended, stand thus:

49. No standing rule or order of this House shall be suspended, changed or rescinded, without one day's previous notice being given therefor.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Kemble asked for and obtained leave to introduce a bill, entitled "An act for the inspection of staves not intended for exportation, and of hoop poles in the county of Rensselaer;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the Oneida lake canal company," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this House voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 30, 1832.

The Senate sent for concurrence, a bill entitled "An act to extend the time for completing the canal and locks in the Seneca river in the county of Onondaga;" a bill entitled "An act to confirm the title of certain real estate in the city of New-York in the trustee of Edward Thorne, and to authorise the sale thereof;" a bill entitled "An act imposing a tax on dogs in the county of Richmond," and a bill entitled "An act to extend the charter of the Sidney bridge company."

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to extend the time for completing the canal and locks in the Seneca river in the county of Onondaga," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. M. W. Bennett, Mr. Howell and Mr. Tilford; the bill entitled "An act to confirm the title of certain real estate in the city of New-York in the trustee of Edward Thorne, and to authorise the sale thereof," was referred to the committee on the petitions of aliens; the bill entitled "An act imposing a tax on dogs in the county of Richmond," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Mercereau, Mr. Downing and Mr. Blauvelt; and the bill entitled "An act to extend the charter of the Sidney bridge company," was referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, severally to consider and report thereon.

Four several messages from the Senate were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Jacob Conrad and Jonah Moore;" the bill entitled "An act to alter the time of holding the courts of common pleas and general sessions in and for the county of St. Lawrence;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Ithaca and Owego rail-road company,' passed January 28th, 1828;" and the bill entitled "An act to authorise the board of supervisors of the county of Wayne to levy a tax on the town of Lyons, to build a bridge in said town," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the Governor.

A message from the Senate was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to authorise the Mohawk and Hudson rail-road company to construct a branch rail-road, and for other purposes," with the amendments therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendments were read; and the amendments having been again read, and the question on concurring with the Senate in their amendments being divided, a part of the amendments was read, in the words following, to wit:

§ 9. Add thereto the following: "and the owners of the stock to be created under and by virtue of the fourteenth section of this act."

After the thirteenth section, insert the following sections:

§ 14. The said rail-road company are hereby authorised to increase their capital stock, immediately after the passage of this act, to six hundred and fifty thousand dollars, by adding to the present capital of five hundred thousand dollars, the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars: Such increased capital stock to be divided into fifteen hundred shares of one hundred dollars each.

§ 15. The directors of the said company shall cause the said fifteen hundred shares to be sold by public auction, at such time or times, at such place or places, and either all at one time, or part at one time and other parts at other times, as they may deem fit; and shall apply the proceeds thereof to the payment of the debts of the said company, and to the completion of their main rail-road, and putting the same in operation, and providing the requisite accommodations therefor and appertaining thereto. Any premium received upon the sale of the said stock, shall be deemed tolls.

§ 16. The increase of capital authorised by the fourteenth section of this act, is exclusive of, and without reference to the increase of capital which is authorised by the fourth section of this act: And if the said company shall make such increase of stock as is authorised by the said fourth section, the whole capital of the said company, shall be seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars; but if they shall not make the increase of stock which is authorised by the said fourth section, then the capital of the company shall be six hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

§ 14. Make it the § 17, and to read as follows: The legislature may, at any time hereafter, alter, amend, or modify this act.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to concur with the Senate in that part of their said amendments, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this House voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

The House then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act for the construction of the Chenango canal;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Seymour, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had disagreed to the first section of the said bill; which he was directed to report to the House, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Thereupon,

Mr. Juliand made a motion that the House should agree to restore the first section of the said bill, stricken out in committee of the whole, which was read, in the words following, to wit :

SECTION 1. The canal commissioners shall proceed, with all reasonable diligence, to construct and complete a canal from Binghamton in the county of Broome, up the valley of the Chenango river, to its head waters, and thence by the most advantageous route to the Erie canal. And the said commissioners, in determining the route and the termination of the said canal at the Erie canal, shall be influenced by regard for economy, public utility, and the relinquishment of damages, and the amount of gifts, grants and donations; but no water shall be taken from the Oriskany and Sadaquada creeks, for the supply of the said canal. The commissioners shall apply to every individual whose land or real estate shall be required to be taken for the construction of the said canal, or shall be so situated as to be in any danger of being affected by the construction of said canal; and unless there shall be a relinquishment of all damages in every case, or a bond shall be given to the people of the State for the payment of all damages in each particular case in which there shall not be such relinquishment of damages, the said commissioners shall not commence the said construction. The terms of all such bonds shall be prescribed by the canal commissioners, and they shall certify that the responsibility of the obligors is sufficient. The said commissioners shall offer to let the said canal for construction, either as a whole, or in convenient sections, as they shall prefer; and unless contracts shall be made by responsible persons, for the construction of the whole of said canal, for a sum in the aggregate not exceeding one million of dollars, the said commissioners shall not commence the said construction. If responsible persons shall offer to construct, under the direction of said commissioners, any portion of said canal, without any charge to the State therefor, the said commissioners shall permit them to do so. Nor shall the said commissioners commence the said construction, until a bond or bonds shall be executed to the people of the State, in the penal sum in the aggregate of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, conditioned to pay the whole amount which the said construction shall cost over the sum of one million of dollars; and the said commissioners shall certify that the responsibility of the obligors is sufficient. The obligors shall have the selection of the engineer to superintend the construction of the said canal, if such selection shall be expressed in writing by a majority of the said obligors.

Debates were had upon the said motion of Mr. Juliand; and the question being put whether the House would agree thereto, it was determined in the negative.

A message from the Senate, with the bill, amendments, and copies of the resolutions therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have non-concurred with this House in such of its amendments to the bill entitled "An act to amend an act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes," as are for that purpose designated in the margin of the same, and have concurred in the other amendments to the said bill.

Thereupon,

Mr. Kemble made a motion that the House should agree to recede from its amendments to the said bill, non-concurred in by the Senate.

Debates were had thereon; and the question being put whether the House would agree thereto, it was determined in the negative.

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, April 26, 1882.

A message from the Senate, delivered by Mr. Dodge and Mr. Conklin, was received, informing that the Senate was ready to adjourn.

Ordered, That Mr. Litchfield and Mr. King wait upon the Governor, and inform him, that unless he has some further business to lay before the Legislature, this House is ready to adjourn.

Ordered, That Mr. Granger and Mr. Downing be a committee to wait upon the Senate, and inform them that this House is ready to adjourn.

Mr. Granger reported, that pursuant to the order of the House, Mr. Downing and himself had waited upon the Senate, and informed them that this House was ready to adjourn.

Mr. Litchfield reported, that pursuant to the order of the House, Mr. King and himself had waited upon the Governor, and informed him, that unless he had some further business to lay before the Legislature, this House was ready to adjourn; and that the Governor had been pleased to say that he had no further communication to make to the Legislature.

On motion of Mr. Granger,

Resolved unanimously, That the thanks of this House be presented to Charles L. Livingston, for his prompt and efficient discharge of the various duties of Speaker, and for the impartiality and dignity with which he has presided over the deliberations of the Assembly during the present session.

To which his Honor the Speaker made the following reply :

GENTLEMEN,

I receive your resolution of approbation with all that sensibility which so distinguished a compliment is calculated to excite. It has been my constant endeavour to discharge the duties incumbent upon me, faithfully and impartially; and my heart is impressed with gratitude in being thus unanimously assured that my efforts have been successful. The frequent difficulties in which an individual, for the first time selected to preside over the deliberations of this House, must be involved, have, as regards myself, been greatly relieved by the able manner in which the labors assigned to our intelligent Clerk have been performed. It is, however, to your indulgence and liberality, to your diligent and patient attention to the public business, that I am mainly indebted for the facilities which have enabled me to discharge, in a manner so acceptable to the representatives of a great people, the duties of an important station.

Being about to close the business of the session, we may indulge the proud reflection, that our labors have been directed to the advancement of the general good, and the elevation of the character of the State. I beg you, gentlemen, to be assured that I entertain, and shall always cherish, a high respect for the virtues and talents which have adorned this House, and that I shall ever be happy to manifest the interest I feel in the prosperity of its members.

Before we part, permit me to tender my warmest acknowledgments for the many favors you have conferred upon me. The treatment I have received from you in our official intercourse, has been a constant exhibition of kindness and generosity. Let us separate with sentiments of mutual esteem; and may the friendship we have contracted for each other, be a source of agreeable reflection when we shall review the occurrences of the session. May that spirit of forbearance and kindness, that patriotic regard for the public interest, which have marked your proceedings, ever accompany you through life.

Gentlemen, I bid you an affectionate farewell.

Thereupon,
Mr. Speaker adjourned the House sine die.

FRANCIS SEGER, Clerk.

Thereupon,

A quorum being present, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair.

On motion of Mr. Seymour,

Resolved, That Oliver Scovil is hereby appointed Assistant Door-keeper of this House.

On motion of Mr. Stilwell,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to wait on his Excellency the Governor, and inform him that this House are assembled in pursuance of his proclamation, and are ready to receive any communication which he may wish to make; and also a committee to wait on the Senate, and inform that body that this House have assembled in pursuance of the proclamation of the Governor.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That Mr. Stilwell and Mr. ~~Moulton~~ be a committee to wait on the Governor, and inform him that this House are assembled in pursuance of his proclamation, and are ready to receive any communication which he may wish to make.Ordered, That Mr. Granger and Mr. Downing wait upon the Senate, and inform them that this House have assembled in pursuance of the proclamation of the Governor.

A message from the Senate, delivered by Mr. Dodge and Mr. Mather, was received, informing that the Senate had met pursuant to the proclamation of the Governor.

Mr. Granger reported, that pursuant to the order of the House, Mr. Downing and himself had waited upon the Senate, and informed them that the House had met in pursuance of the proclamation of the Governor.

Mr. Stilwell, from the committee appointed to wait upon the Governor, and inform him that this House are assembled in pursuance of his proclamation, and are ready to receive any communication which he may wish to make, reported, that Mr. Moulton and himself have performed that duty, and that the Governor had been pleased to say that he would immediately transmit his message to this House.

A message from the Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

Fellow-Citizens of the Senate and of the Assembly.

At the opening of your last session, it was expected that the National Legislature would apportion among the States the representation in Congress, at a day so early as to enable you before your adjournment to divide the State into suitable election districts. Our hopes in this respect were not realized; and after a very laborious session, you adjourned, at the usual time, having previously provided by law for a contingent postponement of the next election, in case an apportionment should not be made. Since your adjournment, Congress has acted upon this subject, and fixed a ratio of representation in the popular branch of that body, by which our State is entitled to forty members, whereby the law postponing the election is annulled.

On the occurrence of this event, I have, in obedience to my constitutional duty, as well as in compliance with your expressed wishes, convened you at this time, that you might provide for the exercise by this State of its full voice in the councils of the nation. As this was my motive for calling you together at this unusual and uncomfortable season of the year, so it is the only business pertaining to your duties within my knowledge, now so urgent as to justify me in the exercise of this power. I am happy to be enabled to say this, and to express the belief that the public wants will not require of you to sacrifice your personal comforts and private interests to the duties of ordinary legislation, through a protracted session.

There is one other subject, however, which I feel bound to present to your consideration, and which may be disposed of without materially interfering with your special business, or prolonging your session. I allude to the supposed approach, at a time of unusual health within our State, of the Asiatic Cholera; a direful disease, which, having spread desolation over a great part of Asia, has advanced with rapid strides through Europe, and is now supposed to have crossed the Atlantic and to be frightfully busied in the work of death among our Canadian neighbors. It is certain that a very malignant disease, in its type resembling the much dreaded Cholera, is ravaging the hordes of squalid emigrants which have been recently disgorged from transport ships near our borders, and has been communicated from them to a portion of the population of the cities of Quebec and Montreal.

It has not been satisfactorily ascertained that the disorder has been communicated within our State, although a few cases of sudden death have occurred, which would not have attracted particular notice in ordinary times. Whether the disease which has proved so fatal in Canada is the Cholera, or has been produced by the very unfavorable circumstances under which an unusual number of the most destitute class of emigrants have been landed during warm weather, in a strange climate, cannot be known without a more minute and scientific examination of facts. But so far as facts have been ascertained, there is reason to believe that the two disorders, if of different character in other respects, resemble each other in these particulars, that they are caused by inattention to cleanliness, and by enfeebling dissipations and excesses, and may be communicated from one person to another in a tainted atmosphere. Cleanliness in and about houses and neighborhoods is believed to be the most effectual barrier against the spreading of this and other similar diseases.

Most of the emigrants who land in Canada direct their course towards the United States, with a view of settling there, and thus expose our fellow citizens to the contagion of diseases which they may bring with them. Heretofore it has not been deemed necessary to guard any avenue for the approach of infectious diseases, except the city of New-York, and our quarantine and health regulations relate chiefly to that city. No power now exists in any public officers or municipal authority elsewhere to interfere to prevent the introduction of disease into other parts of the State. We shall be annually exposed to similar incursions, and I respectfully recommend to you to pass such laws as may be necessary to enforce a sanitary quarantine, at or near the other ordinary points of ingress to our State, and to invest the proper officers with sufficient power to act promptly and efficiently in times of alarm and emergency. An infinitely wise and just God has seen fit to employ pestilence as one means of scourging the human race for their sins, and it seems to be an appropriate one for the sins of uncleanness and intemperance; and when we can trace its existence and propagation under any circumstances to certain causes, it is our duty to employ suitable means to remove those causes and to arrest its progress.

Having thus discharged our duty, we may repose with confidence upon a power, wisdom and mercy beyond our control or comprehension, to bless our exertions and prayers, by removing from us in due time existing calamities, or by averting those which may threaten.

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, June 21, 1832.

On motion of Mr. Spencer,

Resolved, That the clerk of this House shall furnish to each of the members of the Assembly, two daily papers.

On motion of Mr. Otis,

Resolved, That so much of the message of the Governor as relates to the apportionment of members of Congress, be referred to a select committee, to consist of eight members, one from each Senate district.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That Mr. Otis, Mr. Remer, Mr. Myers, Mr. Martin, Mr. Seymour, Mr. Moulton, Mr. Cone and Mr. Gates, be the said committee.

On motion of Mr. Stilwell,

Resolved, That so much of the message of the Governor as relates to the public health, be referred to a committee consisting of the committee on medical subjects and the committee on the judiciary.

On motion of Mr. Arnold,

Resolved, That this House adjourn until eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1832.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Miller from the county of Schoharie, Mr. Speed and Mr. Ellis from the county of Tompkins, Mr. M'Donald and Mr. Bishop from the county of Washington, Mr. Salisbury from the county of Wayne, and Mr. Frost from the county of Westchester, severally appeared in the Assembly chamber, and took their seats.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Rochester, praying for the passage of an act extending their powers for the prevention of pestilential diseases, was read, and referred to the committee on so much of the Governor's message as relates to the public health.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Sacket's-Harbor, praying that all the provisions of the law relative to the introduction of foreign emigrants into the port of New-York may be extended to said village, was read, and referred to the committee on so much of the Governor's message as relates to the public health.

The petition of the first judge of the court of common pleas of the county of Tompkins, and sundry other inhabitants, praying for an alteration of the terms of said court, was read, and ordered to be laid upon the table.

The petition of the trustees of the village of Lansingburgh, relative to the quarantine powers of cities and villages, was read, and referred to the committee on so much of the Governor's message as relates to the public health.

Mr. Milledoler, from the committee on medical subjects, to which was referred so much of the Governor's message as relates to the subject of the cholera, reported :

[See Document No. 331.]

Ordered, That the said report be laid upon the table.

Ordered, That five times the usual number of copies of the said report be printed for the use of the Legislature.

On motion of Mr. Van Duzer,

Resolved, That the committee appointed upon the petition of Jacob Trumpbour, be authorised, during this day or to morrow, to hear such testimony as may be produced before them.

On motion of Mr. Stilwell,

The House then adjourned till half past four o'clock this afternoon.

HALF PAST FOUR O'CLOCK, P. M.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The Senate sent for concurrence, a bill entitled "An act for the preservation of the public health;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

The House then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act for the preservation of the public health;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Arnold, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the House, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the House.

Thereupon,

By the unanimous consent of the House, the said bill was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this House have passed the same without amendment.

And then the House adjourned till eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 1832.

[See Documents Nos. 334 and 335.]

Resolved, That it was the design of the Legislature, in passing the act, 1 Rev. Stat. pages 217 and 218, that there should be an actual survey of the boundaries of the public lands along the lines of the canals, designated by the usual monuments on the ground.

Resolved, That Jacob Trumbour be permitted to finish his surveys and maps accordidg to his undertaking, and for the stipulated compensation.

Resolved, That under the peculiar circumstances of this case, Jacob Trumbour is entitled to be reimbursed such sums as he has necessarily expended, by reason of the interruption he has suffered in the performance of his contract, and that the same be paid out of the canal fund.

Resolved, That it be referred to the Attorney-General to examine and report to the next Legislature, whether any and what further legislative action is requisite to protect the titles and secure the public property constituting the canals of the State.

Ordered, That the said report and resolutions be laid upon the table.

Mr. Hammond made a motion that the House should agree to order double the usual number of copies of the said report to be printed for the use of the Legislature.

Debates were had thereon; and the question being put whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Hammond, it was determined in the negative.

Thereupon,

There not being a quorum of the members present, Mr. Speaker adjourned to meet again at ten o'clock on Monday morning.

MONDAY, JULY 2, 1832.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Genesee and Livingston, praying for an amendment of the act relative to the construction of a bridge across the Genesee river, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

Mr. Varian, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported; that the committee have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to provide for the payment of certain expenses of government;" and the engrossed bill entitled "An act for the preservation of trout in certain waters therein mentioned;" and find the said bills severally correctly engrossed.

Ordered, That the said bills be laid upon the table.

A communication from Doctors Rhineland and De Kay, was read.

[See Document No. 338.]

Ordered, That the said communication be laid upon the table.

Mr. Arnold offered for the consideration of the House, a resolution and recital, in the words following, to wit :

Whereas at the last session of the Legislature, upon the memorial of Jacob Trumpbour, this House did appoint a committee with power to sit thirty days during the recess, to investigate the matter between the memorialist and the people of this State ; which committee, after a laborious examination into the subject, (having power to send for persons and papers,) made a detailed report ; and it being considered inexpedient to take up and settle the question during this extra session, for the want of time,

Resolved, That the report of the select committee on the petition of Jacob Trumpbour, with the evidence accompanying the same, be respectfully referred to the consideration of the next Legislature of this State.

Debates were had thereon ; and the question being put whether the House would agree to the said resolution and recital, it was determined in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Otis,

Resolved unanimously, That the thanks of this House be presented to Charles L. Livingston, for his faithful discharge of the duties of Speaker, and for the impartiality and dignity with which he has presided over the deliberations of the Assembly during its present meeting.

To which his Honor the Speaker made the following reply :

GENTLEMEN,

I tender the warmest acknowledgments of a grateful heart, for this renewed and flattering expression of your approbation of my conduct as the presiding officer of this House. Accept my thanks for your partiality; and may the blessings of a beneficent Providence accompany you to your homes, and render you happy in the circle of your endeared connections.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker adjourned the House sine die.
